Dear Vancouver-Point Grey:

Two years ago, you elected me to represent our community in Victoria. At that time, I made a commitment to you to be accountable and to represent our community with integrity and enthusiasm. This report is about making that promise reality.

I hope you enjoy reading about some of the victories, the challenges and the opportunities I've shared with you, your friends and neighbours over the last year in our first annual accountability report. If you're a regular to our office, or even if you've never had reason to contact me, I hope this report assures you that my staff and I are working hard for you, and our community, every day.

Thank you for the opportunity to represent you in our provincial government.

兩年前，溫哥華格雷岬區選了我當您卑詩省省會裡的代表，我那時候答應了大家會當一個對我們社區負責的省議員。我希望可以跟大家分享我跟我辦事處這段時間的經歷。謝謝您讓我有這個機會當大家的省議員跟大家建立一個更美好的社會。

PINE FREE YOUTH CLINIC

After 40 years of offering confidential, anonymous and compassionate health care to young people, the Pine Free Youth Clinic closed its doors on October 31, 2014.

From April through October the community rallied hard to save this vitally important service.

Thank you to all the nurses, doctors, patients and everyone who showed their support for Pine.

EDUCATION

In May 2014 the Liberal government provoked a province-wide teachers' strike in public schools. The strike lasted five of weeks causing stress and chaos for grade 12 students unclear if they would graduate, kindergarten students that wanted to start school, and importantly, families in our community. Together, we hosted two emergency rallies and sent hundreds of your postcards to the Minister of Education.

MOBILE COMMUNITY OFFICE

British Columbia has never seen a politician on a bicycle quite like this. Vancouver-Point Grey's Mobile MLA Office arrived in June 2014 and quickly made its way across the constituency to all the local festivals. From Khatsahlano to Greek Day, Point Grey Fiesta to FarmAde, it's hard to miss your Vancouver-Point Grey MLA on this lemon-peel yellow, pedal-powered machine. The mobile office started with a dream to be bold and people-focused in approaching politics in the community. With help from local cargo bike mechanic George Rahi of Curious Cargo, a design was made for an office on two wheels with storage space in the front and an umbrella-covered desk-like surface in the front for meetings. We're looking forward to visiting your neighbourhood - especially if it's flat.

There's no mistaking that the arrival of the mobile office in 2014 was a big highlight for Vancouver-Point Grey. Read more in the April 1, 2015 issue of the Vancouver Courier.

CONSTITUENCY OFFICE EXPENSES

Every MLA in BC is provided an annual amount of $119,000 in order to run their constituency office.

This money is used to cover staff time, host community town halls, advertise in local papers, fund work-related training courses and website fees, pay for mailing and hydro bills and purchase office supplies from pens to printer toner.

Every office tracks their fiscal spending and reports quarterly to the Legislature's Financial Services department on these expenses.

GOVERNMENT: Investigation shows minister knew far more about Kwantlen executive bonu

On the afternoon of Dec. 18, 2014, one week before Christmas, Premier Christy Clark quietly moved Amrik Virk, her minister of advanced education, to another portfolio. The news came in a sparsely worded mid-afternoon news release.

No explanation was offered, but political observers quickly linked it to Virk's involvement in the executive-compensation scandal at Kwantlen

In 2014, David held the government to account in the press. Major highlights included David's ability to raise the profile of the Jericho Garrison Lands sale issue, reveal salary cap scandals in the Ministry of Advanced Education through his role as Official Opposition Spokesperson for Advanced Education, and bring to light shady practices in government casino development negotiations in his role as Spokesperson for Gaming.
